Venice, May 1.

ON Wednesday last arrived here some of the Servants of the Princes of Newbourg, who are now at Rome, to prepare a House for them, but the Imperial Ambassador here has let them know, That he expects their Masters will do him the Honour to take an Apartment in his House. The Letters we have from Rome do not tell us of the departure of the Bishop of Fano, whom the Pope has appointed to go in quality of his Nuncio Extraordinary to make his Compliments at the French Court, upon the Birth of the Duke of Burgundy; nor do they speak of any likelihood there is of an accommodation of the differences between the two Courts. There are several Solicitors now at Rome for the Pope's Bulls for Bishopricks lately disposed of by the Most Christian King, but hitherto they have not obtained the dispatch of them. The Letters from Turkey inform us, That the Grand-Signior was parted from Adrianople for Belgrade, where he was expected about the beginning of this Month.

Vienna May 2. The General Rendezvous of the Imperial Army will be held on Thursday next near Presbourg; The Emperor and the Elector of Bavaria are gone thither from Laxemburg, and it's not to be doubted but there will be a very fine appearance. Here is made publick a List of the Emperor's Forces, according to which, his Imperial Majesty has in his Pay 27 Regiments of Foot, making together 55700 Men, whereof 25296 are at the General Rendezvous, near Presbourg; 4692 in upper Hungary, 2040 at Fabluncka on the Frontier of Hungary; 2040 at Leopolstadt on the Waag, 3640 in Austria, 2040 at Vienna, 13912 in the Empire, and 2040 in Bohemia; 17 Regiments of Horse, making together 13600 Men, seven Regiments of Dragoons, consisting of 5600, and four Regiments of Croats, making 3200, whereof 15200 are at the General Rendezvous, 800 in upper Hungary, 400 at Fabluncka, 2400 at Leopolstadt, 800 in Austria, and 2800 in the Empire; So that the General List of Horse and Foot stands thus; at the General Rendezvous, 39696; in the Empire 16712: in upper Hungary, 7532, &c. making in all 78540 Men. Besides these, there will be the Hungarian Troops, under the Command of the Palatine of that Kingdom, those of Croatia commanded by that Viceroy, and Six Thousand Polish Horse, under the Command of the Prince of Lubomirski. The whole Army is to be commanded by the Duke of Lorrain, as Generalissimus, who has an absolute Power to act as he shall think fit for the Emperor's Service. This day arrived here Count Wallastain, the Emperor's Ambassador in Poland, to give the Emperor a particular Account of the present state of Affairs on that side. The Count de Lamberg, the Emperor's Envoy to the Courts of Saxony and Brandenburg, is upon his departure, and we are told that he has Orders to make new Proposals to the Elector of Brandenburg, in order to the inducing him to enter into Engagements with his Imperial Majesty. The Secretary of Count Teckeley is still here; he was dispatched by his Master before he knew that the League was concluded between the Emperor and the Crown of Poland, and the Errand he was sent hither upon is of so little Importance that no body speaks of it. From Warsaw we have advice, That the King of Poland has forbid all Commerce and Correspondence between the Poles and the Hungarian Rebels.

Berlin, May 5. Count Lamberg, the Emperor's Envoy, is expected very suddenly here from Vienna, our last Letters from thence telling us, That he had received his Dispatches, and was upon his departure. Daily Conferences are held here with Monsieur Bierman, the Danish Minister, and it's said he will part from hence very well satisfied, and that his Electoral Highness is resolved to pursue the Measures he has taken for the preserving the Peace of Germany; and we are told, That the Sieur Bierman, when he has finished his Negotiation here, will return to the Courts of the Princes of Lunenburg, which he passed in his way hither, and that his Electoral Highness will likewise send thither the Sieur Meinders, in quality of his Envoy Extraordinary. The Letters from Poland tell us, That they have begun to raise Men, but that that Crown will not be in a posture to act offensively against the Turks this Summer.

Hamburg, May 11. From Stockholm they write, That the King of Sueden, to avoid giving any jealousie to his Neighbours in this conjuncture, has declared, That he will not at present send any Troops to his Territories in Germany; That there has been some disorder among the Bores in Smaland, who disowned what their Deputies had done at the late Dyet, and refused to pay the Tax which the King had ordered to be raised in pursuance of an Act of the said Dyet; upon which some Soldiers were sent down, and 10 or 12 of the most turbulent having been seized, all was quiet again: That the King was sending the Sieur Swanheilm in quality of his Envoy Extraordinary for England, and that he had Orders to pass through Holland, and to confer with the Swedish Minister at the Hague. Our Letters from Copenhagen give us an account, That the Danish Fleet would in a short time be ready to Sail, That the King of Denmark continued his resolution of parting for Holstein about the middle of this Month, and that his Troops were in the Mean time Marching to their general Rendezvous. From Poland they write, That the
